Zetica Surveying

Zetica Ltd is pleased to announce the merger with the topographic surveying company BW Surveying. The two companies have had a close working relationship for over 15 years, and it was an easy decision for the companies to merge and provide an integrated and more effective survey capability.

It effectively means that Zetica's clients have one less survey to worry about as a topographic or measurement survey can be commissioned as part of the utility services, SiteSafe UXO, buried obstruction, engineering geophysics survey or any other survey offered by Zetica as part of an overall package known as GroundCheck®.

Of course clients can also just procure a topographic or measurement survey! Strengthening Zetica's existing topographic capability, the company now provides clients with a much wider range of topographic survey types from basic setting out to full measured surveys.

Operating from offices in Oxfordshire and Kent, the survey capability is offered nationally and draws on over 30 years of experience.

Zetica's CEO, Dr Asger Eriksen said 'being able to offer a range of solutions to make the early stages of a site development lower risk, and to make site investigations more cost effective, has always been our aim. The addition of a topographic survey capability makes those early stages even easier for our clients to manage.
